VANCE'S VOICE

Raised in Support of Senator Brown's Resolution

TO REPEAL THE INTERNAL REVENUE.

How the Surplus Could be Reduced and the People Made Happy—Proceedings of Congress, Etc.

WASHINGTON, January 13.—[Special.]—Senator Vance made an eloquent speech today in support of the resolution offered by Senator Brown a few days ago, proposing to abolish internal revenue taxation. He said: The issue has at last been made up for the American people. It is, shall taxation be enforced for the support of the government or for the support of the world's expansion in Asia?

The bill to end taxation on the several states and territories and the District of Columbia, all moneys collected under the direct tax act of the fifth of August, 1861, was taken up, the question being on the verbal amendment offered by Mr. Horne when the bill was up some days ago.

Mr. Sherman regarded the proposed amendment as merely surplusage, and while he had no objection to it, still he preferred to take the bill as it was, and not to amend it, as prepared some years ago by the first controller of the treasury, and as twice passed by the senate.

Mr. Sherman moved to recommend the bill. It might be somewhat sacrificial, he said, to venture to criticize a bill which had been approved by two secretaries of the treasury, and had been twice passed by the senate; nevertheless, he would do it to make it clear that the bill was not immediately and might better be postponed in a committee of the whole.

The bill to end taxation on the several states and territories and the District of Columbia, all moneys collected under the direct tax act of the fifth of August, 1861, was taken up, the question being on the verbal amendment offered by Mr. Riddleberger when the bill was up some days ago.

Mr. Riddleberger demanded the bill was without exception, and considering the extent, worst that has ever been experienced in the northwest. Snow to the depth of 2 feet on a level and from 3 to 15 feet in cuts, was sufficient to almost suspend the running of trains. But, added to this, the severe wind which blew in some parts and the blizzard which raged in others, it has suspended railway business entirely. Freight trains were hung up early yesterday, not a wheel moving in the afternoon. Passenger trains, one by one, followed suit, and by eight o'clock last night there was not a train on running at a point west of St. Paul. The eastern lines, however, tried hard to keep their tracks open, but without success.

St. Paul, January 13.—Yesterday's storm was without exception, and considering the extent, worst that has ever been experienced in the northwest. Snow to the depth of 2 feet on a level and from 3 to 15 feet in cuts, was sufficient to almost suspend the running of trains. ## Excise Taxes and Tariff Reform.

The Macon Telegraph, which is not always in a happy frame of mind when discussing revenue reform, gives a column or more to a review of some remarks made in these columns in behalf of the repeal of the internal revenue system. The Constitution, backed by several successive legislatures, and, as it believes by an overwhelming majority of the democratic people of Georgia, demands the repeal of the entire internal revenue system, with its outrageous and un-American methods.

In response to the foolish and absurd cry of "free whisky," which was invented by the organs of the whisky ring, and which has apparently deceived so clever a paper as the Macon Telegraph, THE CONSTITUTION stated that the whole matter of whisky manufacture, as well as the traffic, would be in control of the people of the states, to deal with it as they saw fit. To tax the manufacture, as it is taxed now, would be to put into the treasures of the states the money that now goes to swell the surplus in the federal treasury.

But the Telegraph says that taxation by the state is an impracticable scheme, and proceeds to renew the cry of "free whisky."

We are to gather from this that there would be more whisky produced and consumed if the tax is repealed? Are we to understand the Telegraph as claiming that the federal tax acts as a restraint to either the production or consumption of whisky?

Under all the circumstances, we do not see how such a claim could be made. It certainly could not be sustained.

A whisky trust has just been organized to prevent over-production, "and for other purposes." Rather than pay the government tax on whisky for which there is no demand in the market the members of the whisky ring have exported thousands of barrels, and when there is a demand they will reimport it free of duty.

Is the Telegraph of the opinion that the policy of coercion is adhered to in Ireland in the case of the excise tax?

It is the opinion of the Telegraph that the tax is imposed on the people of Ireland, and consumed if the tax is repealed?

Are we to gather from this that there would be more whisky produced and consumed if the tax is repealed?

Under all the circumstances, we do not see how such a claim could be made. It certainly could not be sustained.

If there is any principle which is democratic in its origin and in its maintenance, it is opposition to internal taxes levied by the federal government. They are classed as emergency taxes, and the moment the emergency has passed there has always been a demand for their repeal.

"But," says the Telegraph in effect, "if we repeal the internal revenue taxes, the surplus will be disposed of and there can be no reduction of the revenue." Now, by such arguments as this it is sought to blind and deceive the people. With the internal taxes repealed the surplus will be more than disposed of. There will be a smart deficiency, and this deficiency can only be met by a reduction of duties.

As THE CONSTITUTION has pointed out time and again, there can be no material reduction of duties while the excise taxes are levied, for the reason that any reduction would simply add to the surplus by increasing the volume of imports.

What the Telegraph would be at we do not know, but what Brother Watterson and Brother Morrison are after is free trade and simple—and this means the destruction of southern industries.

THE NEW YORK Sun and the World continue their remarkable editorial war. There is a good deal of provinciality about these metropolitan editors.

Reciprocity With Canada.

The question of a reciprocal treaty between the United States and Canada is being discussed, with a view particularly of effecting some kind of an understanding by which fugitives from justice may be apprehended in either country and delivered to the authorities of the other.

To the United States it is especially important that something of this kind be done. Thousands of transgressors from this country are now in safety at liberty in Canada, and more are going there every day. Indeed, it is the criminal's Mecca, and offers an inviting inducement for cashiers with short accounts, and rogues in general, to accomplish their rascally purposes here, and fly to its protecting arms before being caught up with. It is to be earnestly hoped that it will be remedied by a reciprocal treaty, which will allow criminals to be brought to speedy justice.

An earthquake may be necessary to arouse some of our contemporaries to an appreciation of genuine democracy, but none is needed to convince the people of Georgia that the infamous revenue system ought to be wiped out.

An Imaginary Disease.

A short time ago the Philadelphia Medical and Surgical Reporter discussed what it was pleased to term "a genuine case of hydrophobia." In a later issue the editor admits that he was mistaken, and expresses the opinion that the case was one of lycanthropy.

In conclusion he says:

"Let our readers note that hydrophobia is a sensible disease, and not a symptom of insanity; that it is a natural and normal affection. Let them where it is cultivated, as in France, and does not exist among savage and enlightened peoples. And let them sift carefully any case which seems hydrophobia, as to its history and symptoms; let them shun violence of act or of medication in treating it, and see what the result will be."

The impression is growing in all civilized countries that there is no such disease as hydrophobia, and no such animal as a mad dog. Every few years we have had a mad dog panic, and then the scare subsides and nothing more is heard of it until the periodical excitement is again revived. Very few eminent physicians have ever seen a case which they were satisfied was hydrophobia, and a noted dealer in dogs in New York declares that he has been bitten two hundred times in the past twenty years, and has never suffered any evil consequences from his wounds. This expert is positive that there is no such thing as a mad dog, and his opinion has a very substantial backing.

Unfortunately the testimony of physicians and experts will not convince the masses. The world has believed in mad dogs for thousands of years, and is not prepared to be undeceived. People are naturally disposed to believe in the mysterious and terrible, and the traditional mad dog is one of the most horrible figures that ever carried terror and destruction in his pathway. It is to be regretted that the question cannot be definitely settled. Hydrophobia may be a delusion, but it kills people and drives them crazy. It throws whole communities into unreasoning panics, and causes the lives of many valuable dogs to be sacrificed every year. Science may clear up the mystery surrounding this alleged disease in the course of time, but the world will doubtless have to wait for many centuries before the bottom facts come to light with sufficient proof to satisfy the majority of mankind.

Mr. RANDALL, the democratic leader in the house, took some of the republican orators in hand last Wednesday and wiped the floor with them. The debate was over the little deficiency bill. Fred Mussey, who is a republican, writes to the Commercial Gazette as follows: "It must be acknowledged that what Mr. Randall said was a little big for the republicans to tackle, and it was remarked that he was not replied to from the republican side." There is no republican congressman capable of coping with Mr. Randall on the floor of the house.

A Noble Victim.
The tories will find before they get through their policy of coercion in Ireland that they are playing with edged tools.

It is a small matter to arrest a poor friendless Irishman and imprison him, for speaking up for home rule, but the case of Wilfred Blunt is a very different affair.

Blunt is an English gentleman and a member of one of the oldest families in the kingdom. He married the granddaughter of Lord Byron, and has been secretary of legation in Paris, Vienna, Madrid and Athens. Because he spoke for the rights of Ireland this patriotic citizen has been sent to Galway jail for two months and clothed in the garb of a common felon.

Such a case excites unusual interest in England. Thoughtful people are beginning to ask whether Blunt was guilty of any crime. If it makes a man a felon to advocate the cause of local government, how long will it be before the police and the laboring men are anxious to have it repeated?

EUNICE COTTRELL recently died on the Pequot Indian reservation in Connecticut, at the age of 15 years. She was the great granddaughter of King Philip, and at the time of her death was the eldest descendant of the Philip tribe.

CONGRESSMAN STEWART, of this congressional district, has introduced a bill amending the internal revenue laws. Congressmen Stewart and Lowell meet the views of his constituents if he introduced a bill for their unconstitutional repeal.

GEOFFREY R. TSCHUCK, as business manager of the Omaha Daily Bee, makes a strong statement that the circulation of the Bee is 15,116. This is not mentioned as an advertisement for our contemporary, but merely to call attention to the alphabetical earthquake which may have struck Mr. Tschuck's father's name before he was born.

There is any principle which is democratic in its origin and in its maintenance, it is opposition to internal taxes levied by the federal government. They are classed as emergency taxes, and the moment the emergency has passed there has always been a demand for their repeal.

These acts of cruelty and oppression, however, will do more than anything else to advance the cause of home rule. There is nothing but folly and madness in the tory programme, and the whole iniquitous business will plague its inventors and send like a curse upon their heads. When Blunt comes out of jail he will be the hero of the hour, and it goes without saying that he will have a legion of followers.

BOUTELLE, of Maine, is still troubled about the captured confederate flags. He appears to be playing a good second fiddle to Foraker.

A Safe Investment.
A communication in another column explains the plan of the proposed subscription list for the Atlanta and Selma railroad.

It will be seen that the subscribers will be securely guaranteed against loss and against early and vexatious assessments. Fully two-thirds of the amount necessary to build the road will have to be subscribed before any contracts can be let out for grading, etc., and before more than ten per cent can be collected for the expense of a survey.

GALLANT GIRLS.

A Merry Time Down in America.
A GRAND LEAP YEAR ENTERTAINMENT

The Young Ladies Escort Their Beau—
Weddings and Rumors of Weddings—
Society Items Generally.

American society has been on the quiet ever since it was announced that the young ladies were going to take advantage of their time—and year—in-and-play the devotee to the young gentlemen at an elegant geman on Monday evening at the handsome rooms of the Athletic club which will be the scene of the grand entertainment. The plans are all being rapidly carried out. The plan was in attendance. Many hundreds of the young people having made their leaps in the long ago had gathered to have their memories refreshed. To the credit of the young ladies, no "wall-flowers" were visible. All were merry, good cheer seeming to reign. The young men, however, were in full dress—polka, rumba, lancers, etc.—were indulged in until a sharp whistle rang out from the petite "queen of the house of Princes" announcing the geman. This dance was never more beautifully conducted, many new figures being introduced by the queen herself. Miss Duke Prince and her assistant, Mr. Will Wright.

The toasts were all marvels of taste, elegance and beauty, but owing to the large attendance only a brief description can be given.

They devoted the whole night to the entertainment of the men that lacked for attention. Major J. L. Galtier, Ziba Bennett and F. H. Brown, of Albany, and Camille Pearson, of Macon, graced the occasion with their appearance.

Many handsome married couples were among the dancers. An elaborate description of each couple follows.

The Willing Workers of the Hunter street Christian church held a pleasant meeting at the residence of Colonel Almon Howell, No. 70 Ivy street, last night. The attendance was large, and the service, and the programme of refreshments on hand were enjoyed. ## PICKED PARAGRAPHS.

The new cent green postage stamp seems to be getting "licks" all over the country. A woman, bearing the name of Giveaway, a well known agent at Tennessee Pass, Colorado, has given birth to five boys.

There was recently sold at auction in Paris an autograph letter of Mirabeau, from prison, for $1; one from Danton for $8, and one written jointly by Robespierre, the great Carnot and other worthies of the revolution for $8.

There were lynched during the year 1887 in these United States, the total number of persons of African race and territories Texas leads the list, with fifteen lynchings, and Mississippi is only second to place, with fourteen to her credit. All the victims were males, eighty of them being negroes.

The glory of the Indian has passed in the far west. Recently a number of school boys attending the Central High School, Ogallala, Nebraska, were passing with mortals. The Indians gave chase and captured one little boy, but on his saying that he had not thrown any stones, I let him go. The Indians made a complaint, but got no satisfaction.

It is reported from Paris that a jeweler there lost a magnificent pearl necklace 18 carats, and valued at $2,000. An adventurous liberal, and a valued friend, a rug dealer, brought the gem to the store. She said that she had three weeks before gathered up the contents of an ash box in front of the jeweler's, and when she came to sort them over she found the pearl.

Boston young lady, "Don't say 'vase,' 'Polly,' The word is not used 'vase.' Country cousin, I am a poor girl." Well, as I was saying, I went down town to buy some vase to trim my hat, and I walked at such a pace that people must have thought I was in a raw, and when I got into the store my vase was as red as fire. Do correct me when I say anything contrived, won't you, Anne?"

Dame Kearney is in Washington. He said, "I have to look after Chinese legislation. The Chinese must go, and they must quit coming. I am doing what I can for Senator Mitchell, who will keep all of them out forever. The Chinese seem to be in Washington. The nation's capital is a fitting spot for Wong and Dame Kearney to conclude the spirited debate which they began some months ago in the World office."
